A FEARFUL STORM.

Great Damage in England and on French Coast.

Several Lives Lost and Many Vessels Wrecked and Driven Ashore.

Telegraph Service Demoralized and Steamers Delayed on Their Trips.

London, Sept. 25. A large number of coasting vessels were unable to make a safe offing owing to the storm and were thrown ashore at Holy Head, Sheerness, Dover and Yarmouth. As far as known all men on these vessels were saved.

Isolated cases of drownings are reported from different places along the coast.

At Yarmouth the wind blew with hurricane force, its velocity being 90 miles an hour. Many buildings were unroofed or otherwise damaged and in some places standing crops were completely destroyed. Farm property suffered severely at H. Fracombe, a fashionable watering place in Devonshire. The arcade was wrecked and great numbers of trees torn up by the roots.

The telegraph service was demoralized in the west of England, wires and poles being blown down. The steamers plying between Folkestone and Boulogne Sur Mer were compelled to abandon their trips. The steamers of other lines running to the continent were greatly delayed.

The non-arrival caused much anxiety among those who had relatives or friends on board.

An unknown barkentine was wrecked on Strumblehead. The crew were drowned.

Damage on French Coast.

Paris, Sept. 25. A very severe gale prevailed to-day along the French coast and much damage was done.

Massachusetts Democrats Taking Up Beardless Youths.

Boston, Sept. 25. The Herald says the name of Jeremiah T. O'Sullivan, of Lawrence, will be presented to the Democratic convention tomorrow as candidate for lieutenant governor by James F. Morris, Fall River. Several of Williams' friends are openly opposed to the candidacy of Mr. O'Sullivan and it is said that Hon. George Fred Williams is also opposed to the Lawrence youth. Both Williams and O'Sullivan are warm personal friends but as to the policy of the Williams men at tomorrow's convention Mr. O'Sullivan is against it.

A COLD DAY AT RIGBY.

But Considering Conditions Good Time Was Made.

The 2.15 Trot the Most Hotly Contested of Any Race Friday.

Required Seven Heats to Finish---The Fast Pacers Did Not Start.

Portland, Me., Sept. 25. The day at Rigby was cold and a strong wind blew, but considering the conditions some good time was made and the races were contested in a very lively manner. Guinette won the 2.08 pace in straight heats. Dione took the final heat in the unfinished 2.20 stake easily. The 2.15 trot was the most hotly contested of any race and it took 7 heats to finish it, Chance winning the last three handily after Germaine had become the favorite. In the 2.23 trot, Eddie B., a Lewiston horse, got two heats but lost the third, making necessary a postponement until to-morrow. The fast pacers were not started to-day against time on account of the cold weather. The summaries:

KILKENNEY CATS

Not Circumstance to Democratic Meeting in Boston

When Wind-bag Williams Denounced Little Josiah Quincy and Others.

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 25. In the special car of the Massachusetts committee Mr. Bryan made the trip from Springfield to Worcester. He talked most of the way with George Fred Williams. Two members of the Worcester reception committee, Jas. H. Mellen, representative of the Massachusetts legislature, who is the silver candidate for chairman of the Democratic State convention which meets to-morrow, and James O'Gara, of Spencer, who wants to secure the nomination for Congress from this district on the silver Democratic ticket, accompanied Mr. Bryan.

During the run the train halted briefly at Palmer, Warren and Westbrookfield where small crowds saw and cheered the nominee. Between eight and ten thousand people crowded together in Salem square and heard a short speech by Wm. J. Bryan to-day. Mr. Bryan reached Worcester shortly before 3 and was cheered by a throng of several thousand at the union station. He entered a carriage with Eugene Moriarty, one of the Worcester representatives in the Massachusetts legislature; Alex Troup, of New Haven, and George Fred Williams. A red-coated band led the way to the square.

Mr. Bryan spoke from a temporary stand. Behind him was the big building of Wm. H. Burns, the underwear manufacturer, who had lavishly decorated his establishment with emblems showing his hostility to the Democratic candidate. Pictures of Washington and Lincoln were conspicuously among them and many placards bearing protection and gold legends were displayed. A big portrait of McKinley had the American flag as its background, while corresponding to it was the red standard of anarchy with Bryan's portrait in it. The application was marked.

It was known that the display would be made and there had been talk of a hostile demonstration but none occurred. Mr. Bryan saw the decorations but made no reference to them. He was presented by Mr. Moriarty and loud cheers came from the crowd when he stepped forward. Returning to the station, at the close of his speech, he found a big gathering. The people pressed around the rear car, shouting for the candidate. The cheers that came when he went out upon the platform were heartier than those at Salem square. It was 3.24 when the train drew out, followed by loud shouting.

Bryan Accompanied by George Freddy and "Kid" O'Sullivan.

Boston, Sept. 25. One stop only at South Framingham, was made by Bryan on the trip from Worcester to Boston. Three cheers were given him there by a gathering of several hundred. Mr. Bryan did not speak. George Fred Williams, Alex Troup, of New Haven, and Jeremiah T. O'Sullivan, of Lawrence, accompanied Mr. Bryan to Boston.

Concerning the condition of his health Bryan said he was feeling strong and well and was reducing exertion to a minimum by resting at every opportunity. Between stations to-day he would lie down in the drawing room of his special car and managed to recuperate in that way. Bryan has not yet written a letter accepting the Populist nomination. He said to-day he had not had time to finish it, but would probably do so next week.

Arrived at Boston.

Boston, Sept. 25. Bryan arrived in Boston at 5 57 p. m. He was met at the station by a delegation of six members of the Bryan-Sewall Club. Some two thousand persons were in the station. As the train stopped the crowd made a rush for the cars and easily overcame the efforts of a large force of police which endeavored to keep back the people.

Bryan was taken to the American House where he took luncheon with sixty silver men.

At 7.45 he reached the common where he found between 50,000 and 75,000 people. Mr. Bryan said it was the largest gathering he had addressed. It was a howling, pushing, good natured, police-resisting crowd. Mr. Bryan was introduced by James H. Mellen, of Worcester. After the cheers had subsided Mr. Bryan spoke.

Bryan was followed by a short speech from Sewall. At the Music Hall meeting 4,000 or 5,000 men and women were present. The chief interest centered in the sensational speech delivered by Geo. Fred Williams. When he appeared on the stage, a great cheer arose and the shouts were renewed time and again. The cheering broke out afresh when Mr. Sewall appeared and he was given three cheers, to which he bowed his thanks.

Joseph A. Dennison presented Williams. The audience rose en masse. Men waved their hats and yelled with might and main. Pandemonium reigned for a minute or two. Williams' speech was full of invective and direct accusation. Mayor Josiah Quincy was criticised by the speaker and his name was hissed by the audience.

Secretary Robinson of the Democratic State central committee was accused of moral irresponsibility. Addressing the delegates to the State convention who were present the speaker requested them to remain after the meeting was over to draft a bill of equity to be presented to a judge, or stay in their places until the convention was called to order to prevent the State committee from packing the house with "its heelers" and take the temporary organization from the rightfully accredited delegates.

This proposition caused a wild scene of enthusiasm. The band in the lower gallery began playing "Hold the Fort" and this intensified the shouting. Williams invited the band to stay, "Gentlemen, will you stay?" "We will" came back the chorus, and there was more cheering.

At 8.50 Bryan appeared. He was received with enthusiasm. Williams lost no time in presenting the Democratic candidate, concluding with "God bless you, William J. Bryan." Another uprising of the audience occurred, lasting a few minutes. Mr Bryan then began his speech.

FISH VERY PLENTY.

Drive Down to the Shore and Get Them.

Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 25. Capt White of the schooner Iolanthe from Bleak Island with 150 barrels of mackerel reports an immense school of fish out there, but so close in shore that the fishermen are unable to catch them. Horsemen drive down on the beach and with dip nets load their teams. The fish are of excellent quality. Fishermen expect to make large catches as soon as the fish move off shore and the prospect for a good fall's work is favorable.

SHOCKING STARVATION

Stares Armenians in the Face the Coming Winter.

Miss Barton Says United Charity of World is Necessary to Prevent It.

Not Likely that Red Cross Can Assist Cubans in Present State of Affairs.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 25. Miss Clara Barton, who is visiting friends here, said to members of the G. A. R. posts who called upon her that the reports of trouble and distress in Asia Minor were not exaggerated and in her opinion nothing less than the united charities of the world could prevent shocking starvation there next winter.

Miss Barton stated that she had received no application from the Cuban club for Red Cross assistance for the Cuban army, as reported.

Another Red Cross worker, in speaking of the cruelties in Cuba, says for the Red Cross to act, under the present attitude of the United States toward Cuba, would necessitate their first receiving certain concessions from Spain, and from certain happenings in the past it does not appear probable that Spain would listen to any arguments concerning the humane treatment of the Cubans or their wounded.

Doctors who have gone from here to aid the injured have been thrust into prison and there shot by Spaniards, who destroy both the Cuban hospitals and the wounded when they fall into their hands. It is suggested that if a feasible plan can be devised whereby the American Red Cross can be of assistance to the sufferers of either side, that the society would undoubtedly be only too glad to send it.

REVIEW OF TRADE.

A Feeling of Greater Confidence Noted in the East.

New York, Sept. 25. Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: In eastern jobbing circles the feeling is one of increased confidence. There is more doing in some staple lines, noticeably in the East and a few southern cities. In most other instances purchases continue for immediate wants only. There is little expectation of a general revival in business prior to the election. Throughout the central West and Northwest no material change is reported in general trade features. The exceptions are at Cincinnati and St. Louis, where the demand for staples is larger. Savannah and Augusta report a marked increase in the volume of business, wholesale and retail, with satisfactory collections. Memphis and Galveston report moderate gains in demand and sales.

Improvement is shown in various commercial and industrial lines at New York, Boston, Providence and Pittsburg. Improved demand for wool continues with upward tendency in prices. The demand from England remains noticeable, but is offset by higher rates of freight and scarcity of ocean room.

There is a better jobbing movement in cotton goods, which are higher. Not much more woolen machinery has been started. Sales of woolens are generally of the low cost variety. The starting up of iron mills and furnaces is conspicuous, and the makers in some instances seem anticipating a demand. Stocks of pig iron are nearly doubled since January 1, but the producing capacity has been restricted more than one-third.

The better feeling in the iron and steel industry is not followed as yet by a corresponding demand. Exports of 50,000 tons of steel rails, 25,000 tons of pig iron and smaller quantities of other forms of those metals this year have been possible only by reason of the extreme depression of cost prices of raw materials at a time when foreign makers are endeavoring to obtain higher prices. Some textile manufacturers in Philadelphia have started up and some have shut down. Providence manufacturers of textiles and jewelry report better demand, and makers of cotton yarns continue to curtail output.

Easier rates for money at the east are followed by a disposition on the part of western banks to make loans. At many points the money markets are characterized by extreme stringency, notably at some northern cities. Collections are generally difficult to make, the only tendency to ease being at some primary markets for wheat and cotton. The general tendency of staples continues most of the advances of a week ago notably those for cereals, wool, cotton and leather, while iron, steel, lumber and hides remain firm.

Bank clearings, a gauge of the business, brings an expected decrease compared with last week, the falling off amounting to more than 5 per cent., the total for the six days ending Sept. 24 being $833,000,000. The decrease this week compared with the corresponding week in 1895 is 14 per cent.

Exports of wheat (flour included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States and Montreal this week are 3,818,645 bushels (dispatch from Newport News not received, compared with 3,151,000 in the week a year ago.

The number of failures throughout the United States is 321 this week, compared with 198 in the fourth week of September, 1895.

If the domestic wheat crop be placed at 450,000,000 bushels this year, which is materially larger than the government reports indicate, even the largest allowance of wheat carried over in the United States July 1, is shown by Bradstreet's to permit only a slightly larger export surplus of this cereal year than last. With short wheat crops in the most important wheat exporting countries this is of great significance. Should the government indications of the size of the domestic wheat crop prove true, the indicated surplus for export this cereal year would not be much more than 50,000,000 bushels and more than 60 per cent. of that total has gone forward already.

APPEAL TO CITIZENS

In the Agitation Going On at Concord, N. H.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 25. Rev. D. W. Clark, of West Concord, for the committee on publication, has issued an appeal in behalf of those who are interested in the citizens' movement urging men of all parties to join in an effort to be made to bring about a change in the interest of economy and the enforcement of all laws in this city at the coming election.

THE LAST DAY

Of the Conference at Fort Fairfield.

Fort Fairfield, Me., Sept. 25. At the General Congregationalist conference Thursday evening the exercises included a praise service, the reception of delegates from corresponding bodies and addresses on "What issues confronting the church to-day are most important?" by Rev. Messrs. Marr, of Cumberland Mills, and Mills, of Belfast, President Hyde, of Brunswick, and Rev. Mr. Williamson, of Augusta. These resolutions were adopted:

We believe in the honest, fair and impartial enforcement of the laws for the total suppression of the liquor traffic and to that end we will pray, work and vote. We will strive to effect a union of all the Christian forces of the State against the rum power.

The president of the conference will appoint a committee of three to co-operate with the other Christian denominations of a civic league, looking to the enforcement of the laws and high standard of civic righteousness.

It is the universal verdict that this has been the best conference held in the State. The attendance has been large and the enthusiasm marked.

MAINE'S BIG VERDICT

Discussed by Mr. Powers in Boston.

Boston, Sept. 25. Governor-elect Llewellyn Powers of Maine arrived this morning at the Parker House. As he stood in the lobby this noon, he was the centre of an admiring group of politicians and friends, who extended congratulations upon the result of the recent Maine election. He is on his way to New York on business, and will remain in Boston tomorrow to speak at the dinner of the Norfolk Club, to be held at Parker's at 2. To the Maine election, Mr. Powers said he could add little to what had already been published upon the fruitful topic.

"There are the figures," said Mr. Powers, "and they speak for themselves. They settle the question of the attitude of the Maine voters upon the silver question. As to how far they may be taken as an indication of the feeling in the national election each man may judge for himself. To my mind the large vote in Maine may be attributed to the fact that the people of that State are not cranky enough to accept the doctrines of free silver which Mr. Sewall represents. The change in the revenues due to the passage of the Wilson bill had a bad effect upon the industries of Maine. The people of the State want a change, but not in the currency.

"I do not believe there were 250 Republicans in Maine who voted for the free silver candidate, while it looks as though some 12,000 Democrats voted for me. A good many people have asked me how it was our estimates of the plurality were so much less than the actual figures. As a matter of fact Mr. Manley and a few of us who were keeping close track of the voters of the State concluded that the Republican plurality would be greatly in excess of that figure. Mr. Manley gave out 20,000 as a certain plurality but there was no necessity for making big claims. That is well enough when a result is in doubt, but we knew Maine was safely Republican in spite of the big claims of the opposition.

"Mr. Manley did not include in his estimate 20,000 voters who were placed on our lists as doubtful. On the eve of the election I told a few of my personal friends that I would not compromise on 30,000 plurality. Mr. Manley's private estimates were in excess of that figure, for we felt that most of the doubtful vote could be counted upon as a vote against the free silver heresies. It was especially gratifying to me to find my largest gains were made among the farming classes, for I was a farmer boy myself, and have always numbered among my friends many of the leading men among the farmers, both Republicans and Democrats.

"The result shows that the Maine farmer is alive to the importance of the issues in this election. The claims of the free silver men were simply preposterous. In my own county, Aroostook, they claimed that I would be beaten. A week before the election I gave out for publication that I would carry the county by 1,500 and told my friends that I would have 2,500. As a matter of fact we carried the county, which is largely agricultural, by more than 3,800 plurality."

MR. POWERS WILL SPEAK

To the Norfolk Club of Massachusetts.

Boston, Sept. 25. The Norfolk Club of Massachusetts will hold its first fall session tomorrow. Hon. Llewellyn Powers, the recently elected Governor of Maine, will be the principal speaker. Mr. Powers was at one time a member of the Norfolk Club. Congressmen Barrett and McCall will also address the club and prominent officials of the State will attend the meeting.

The Voice of The People

In view of the fact that the solid Democratic vote in the Senate strengthened by the support of a few free silver Senators who had been acting with the Republicans prior to that time, defeated the emergency tariff bill, it has been held that it was necessary to abandon any idea of tariff legislation in the next Congress. This claim was based on the assumption that the same combination would prevail in the next Congress that prevented revenue legislation in the last. The Washington correspondent of the Boston Herald, however, is authority for a report in which Senator Teller is credited with the remark that in the event of Mr. McKinley's election he and the other silver Senators would take the result as a notice that the people wanted a proper tariff law enacted and that they would not oppose such legislation by insisting on a free silver amendment.

This would certainly be the sensible view of the situation. Even those States that are interested in the free coinage of silver have a greater interest, so far as the majority of the people are concerned, in a protective tariff that will revive the languishing home industries. The silver Senators would have nothing to gain by obstructive tactics if they hold the balance of power in the next Congress which is not an assured fact. As the political skies brighten there are evidences of a gradual restoration of business confidence. The assurance of the early enactment of tariff legislation that would once more place the Treasury beyond the menace of the steadily increasing deficit growing out of the existing law, and afford our home industries adequate protection from the disastrous effects of foreign competition, would mark the beginning of another era of prosperity for the American people.

Will Vote for McKinley.

The Grand Army veterans in Maine will be interested to know that Mr. Harry Weissinger for whom they entertain a feeling of warm friendship on account of his courtesy during a recent encampment, although a life-long Democrat, has announced his purpose to support McKinley in the coming election. In a letter to the chairman of the Republican State Committee, published in the Louisville Commercial, Mr. Weissinger says:

The Bryan party, a conglomerate aggregation of anarchists, Populists, free silver Republicans and dissatisfied Democrats, masquerading under the honored and cherished name of Democracy, cannot set itself up as the champion of the down-trodden South, for the South stands to-day on all fours. The voice of Louisiana is as potent in the councils of the nation as the voice of Maine.

The Chicago platform has not a suggestion of Democratic principles, as I have been taught them, and as I understand them. I have always believed that a sound and stable currency was of the very essence of good government. In the earlier and purer days of the party it was assumed that the market value of a metal determined its coinage value, and if Jefferson and his contemporaries said little in support of this proposition, it was because there were no Altgelds and Tillmans to dispute so self-evident a truth. It was not necessary to make an elaborate argument in support of that which no intelligent man in that day disputed.

I am persuaded that if the free silver doctrine promulgated at Chicago becomes part of the financial system of this country, it will sap the moral sentiment of the people. I cannot follow it; I cannot vote for the man who stands on it. In my humble opinion it behooves every man who loves his country and feels as I do to take such action as in his judgment will best serve to defeat this most undesirable consummation. The only way to defeat it is to defeat Bryan; the only way to defeat Bryan is to vote for McKinley.

Mr. Weissinger enclosed in his letter a check for $50 to be used in the campaign work of his State.

Hill and Thacher.

[New York Sun, Dem.]

The mystery of Senator Hill's silence since the Chicago Convention is now clearly explained. He has been hoping and working in private to preserve from disruption the Democracy of the Empire State, by means of the political expedient which will henceforth be known as Thacherism.

Thacherism consists of keeping your heart and soul true to the right, and proudly going to the polls and voting for the wrong. We do not know that we can define in fewer words the essence of Senator Hill's laboriously conceived device.

There is no longer any doubt about the nature of Senator Hill's plan for the salvation of New York Democracy. It has been perfected during twelve weeks of studious seclusion, indefatigable industry, and subterranean effort, all inspired by a loyal and generous devotion to the party's welfare. The well meant scheme is at least disclosed. Its visible and audible manifestation is Thacher. Mr. Thacher himself is of no great importance, but in the present situation he expresses the attitude and intentions of David Bennett Hill.

In one of Senator Hill's several speeches before the State Committee on Tuesday evening, he is reported as saying:

"I hate this newspaper business. I [illegible] this [illegible] party [illegible] own counsel. Don't show any telegrams that you have sent or that you have received. Try to keep private the negotiations that are necessary in the conduct of diplomacy. Silence is necessary on the part of all leaders, whether they be leaders of great bodies or of small factions. That has been my plan." [illegible] went to work with misplaced adroitness to negotiate in private a compromise which could only cheat both parties; to dig his party's way and his own way out of the difficulty by means of a tunnel which leads only to the foolishness of Thacher.

Friendship may grieve over this stupendous blunder of an acute, perhaps too acute, intellect. But History, pitiless in her judgments, will smile when she makes record of a glorious opportunity misunderstood, unappreciated, and lost forever.

From one point of view it is reasonable to urge the retention of John Boyd Thacher on the Popocratic State ticket; and Thacher himself is justified in his determination to stick to his candidacy. No fitter candidate could have been found for a Convention which, in the interest of repudiation, repudiated its declared principles of three months before, than a man capable of the same despicable recantation. Thacher was the temporary chairman of the genuine Democratic State Convention, which was held at Saratoga on the 24th of June last, and which resolved that "we favor the rigid maintenance of the present gold standard as essential to the preservation of our national credit, the redemption of our public pledges, and the keeping inviolate of our country's honor." Addressing the same genuinely Democratic Convention, Thacher declared that the repudiation policy "touches with coarse hand the national honor;" and "neither consideration of expediency nor the selfish interest of those who own silver bullion should lead us to depart from the safe and secure path."

Is it fair to require of a man that he should go any further in the repudiation of principle than to seek a nomination for Governor from a convention which, three months later, went in squarely for the very policy he had denounced as infamous? What more could be asked of him in justice than he has already promised in pledging himself to vote for Bryan and to "touch with coarse hand the national honor?" It is not possible for him to get down any lower, to stultify himself and debase himself more completely.

Thacher has a right to expect and to claim the enthusiastic support of every Repudiationist. He is going to vote for Repudiation and to help it along to the extent of his power by running as a tender to Bryan. His good reputation is gone; he has made himself despicable in the eyes of the people, and it is not possible for him to make any greater sacrifice to Repudiation.

In this view, Thacher is the man of all others for the Buffalo ticket. He matches its infamy exactly. The feeling of contempt he excites is the same feeling which all honorable Democrats have for it. Repudiation is fitted with repudiator. John Boyd Thacher belongs on the ticket. He is there of right, and the displacing of him would be "political cowardice." It would be worse. It would be gross political ingratitude to a man who consented to debase himself in order to get a nomination for Governor of New York.

Tom Grady declared at the meeting of the Republican State Committee on Tuesday evening that "if Thacher remains on this ticket he will not receive 50,000 votes in New York county." That is probable; but if he gets the 50,000 votes he will poll about the whole repudiation vote, and will do fully as well as could any candidate by whom he might be replaced.

By all means, let repudiation stick to Mayor Thacher.

Presentation of Emperor's Picture to Sultan Excites Comment.

Terrific Northeast Gale in English Channel ---Other Items.

London, Sept. 25.—The Standard expresses sympathy with Mr. Gladstone's utterances but contends that he suggests nothing practical. The Standard urges the government to continue to co-operate with the other powers and not enter upon rash enterprises despite them.

Presentation Caused Comment.

Berlin, Sept. 25.—The Constantinople correspondent of the Frankfurt Zeitung telegraphs that ten days after the recent massacre of Armenians in Constantinople, Baron Von Saurma Jeltsch, the German ambassador represented to the Sultan on behalf of Emperor William a photograph of the German emperor and his family.

The other embassies were greatly astonished that the gift should have been presented under the circumstances. The members of the German colony regret that the presentation should have been made at such an inopportune time. In fact many of them believe it should not have been made at all. The correspondent adds that it has since transpired that the presentation of the gift was arranged prior to the massacres.

Comments of the Daily News.

London, Sept. 25.—The Daily News sees in the presentation of a photograph of the German Imperial family to the sultan and in the expulsion from Berlin of Prof. Thoumaian, the well known Armenian lecturer, confirmation of the statements telegraphed from Constantinople, that Germany's influence with the sultan is now more powerful than that of all the other powers.

Spanish Steamer Wrecked.

Amsterdam, Sept. 25.—The four masted steamer which was reported ashore on the Bosch[illegible], off the north coast of Holland, proves to be the Spanish steamer Hugo from Bremen for Liverpool in ballast and not a North German Lloyd steamer as she was first supposed to be. The crew left the steamer have been safely landed on the Island of Ameland in the North Sea.

Terrific Northeast Gale.

London, Sept. 25.—A terrific northeast gale prevailed throughout last night in the English channel, the Bristol channel, off Cornwall and elsewhere along the coasts doing a great deal of damage. Several sailing vessels were driven ashore in the Bristol channel and off Cornwall and the steamer Teutonic from Liverpool, Sept. 24, for New York was delayed at Queenstown four hours after which the storm abated somewhat and she proceeded on her voyage at 7.47 this morning.

The barks Agdir and Rerm Hving were wrecked off Folkestone during the night. The crews of both vessels were saved.

QUITE A SENSATION

Caused by Withdrawals from Western Freight Association.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Quite a sensation was sprung in railroad circles last evening by the withdrawal of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific companies from the Western Freight Association. The letters of notification to Chairman Midgeley are very firm and uncompromising and indicate a very unsatisfactory state of affairs among the 31 lines comprising the association.

On behalf of the Santa Fe, Mr. Paul Morton writes Commissioner Midgeley that after having been solicited to join the association in order to strengthen it, his company was "extremely disappointed in the result of the organization. The Western Freight Association agreements being violated every day by the issuance of independent and unauthorized tariffs and other irregular methods in consequence of which we see nothing further to be gained by further continuing our membership in the association as at present organized and this is to give notice of our intention to withdraw therefrom ten days from today."

In conclusion Mr. Morton says that "if the time ever comes when there is apparently a desire on the part of our competitors to enter into an agreement and carry it out honestly and literally we shall be glad to join them."

For the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Traffic managers, J. M. Johnson refers to the appeal recently issued by Chairman Midgeley for orderly methods and says: "This seems to us to be a formal and official announcement by you of what in fact has been the case for about two months namely, a mutual abandonment of the western freight association by all lines members of it."

The Rock Island also gives notice of a negative vote in the matter of restoring rates on packing house products of all kinds to those in effect Aug. 1, and announces its intention to reduce rates from the 28th inst., as follows: Proportional rates to Rock Island on fresh meats in car load lots, from Wichita, 16½ cents; Kansas City, St. Joseph and Omaha, 10 cents; on packing house products, carloads, Wichita, 14½ cents; Kansas City, etc., eight cents; other points in proportion.

REV. DR. PARKHURST

Says McKinley's Election Means Preservation of National Honor.

New York, Sept. 25.—Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst was a passenger on the steamer Germanic which reached her pier at 8.45 today. The pastor spent his vacation in Switzerland and looks hale and hearty. To a reporter who met him at the pier he said:

"At the present time the national issue is of paramount importance. McKinley's election means the preservation of national honor and the question of the Presidency should at this moment relegate all other subjects to the back ground.

"Tammany's attitude is the one it should take. It has never been a Democratic organization but a running sore on the body of the Democratic party. As to our society, it will get to work immediately after election and continue its labor. There is a good deal to be done."

MEXICAN CUSTOM HOUSE

At Juarez Thought to be in Danger of Capture.

New York, Sept. 25.—A special from El Paso, Tex., says: It was reported here Monday night that a band of 200 armed Mexicans were up the river 14 miles above El Paso preparing to swoop down on Juarez and capture the Mexican custom house.

A general call to arms was sounded at Fort Bliss at 4 o'clock yesterday morning and in half an hour one troop of cavalry and three companies of infantry had boarded a special train and were going up the river in command of Col. Valzah.

The troops are now marching through the Bosque, and Mexican cavalrymen are stationed at the south end to capture any one trying to escape. It is reported that the soldiers have captured half a dozen armed Mexicans in the Bosque.

THE LEADVILLE STRIKE.

One Hundred Miners from Missouri and Kansas.

Fort Scott, Kas., Sept. 25.—One hundred miners from the southwest Missouri and southeast Kansas mines, left this city yesterday for Leadville, Col., in charge of a representative of the Leadville mine owners to take the places of the striking miners. They occupied special coaches on the Missouri Pacific.

REPORTER ARRESTED

For Sending Out News of the Situation at Leadville.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—A special from Leadville, Col., says: Major Smith was appointed provost marshal here yesterday and followed up his appointment by making a number of arrests which threaten to bring on a clash between the military and civil authorities. One of the first acts of the provost marshal was to cause the arrest of J. W. Mitchell, a reporter for the Denver Times, thereby creating a press censorship. Maj. Smith instructed Mitchell not to send out a certain piece of news. It was sent as a private note to the paper and for this Mitchell was arrested and the military authorities refuse to release him.

There is already a clash, as it is asserted martial law has not been formally declared, and today the right of the provost marshal to arrest and hold people without warrant of law will be tested.

Reports of Strained Relations Between United States, England and Germany in Samoa

Apia, Samoa, Sept. 8, via San Francisco Sept. 25. The publication in a San Francisco paper declaring that strained relations exist between the three powers, the United States, England and Germany on account of the refusal of Germany to participate in celebrating the Queen's birthday and the Fourth of July, has created a sensation here. The statements are without foundation. The levee and ball by the British consul general was attended by all German officials. The American celebration was a subscription affair, one [illegible] [illegible] character. Vice Consul Blacklock remained away, which accounts for the absence also of the German [illegible]

POSTAGE ON WEDDING CAKE.

Miscarriage of an Attempt to Economize Prevents a Marriage

'Do tell me all about Nell s wedding said the girl in the crash suit. Did it all go off well? And how '—

'Oh beautifully' cried the girl in the white frock. My dress was perfectly lovely, my gloves were an ideal fit, and my hair kept its curl as well as if I was only attending an old maids' tea party

'How nice! But tell me about Nell. Was she —

"She was horrid Actually wanted me to help her dress for the ceremony! As if I hadn t any bridesmaid s toilet to think of I am afraid that dear Nell is too selfish to make a really good wife '

'Then she will naturally have an unselfish husband dear '

'Perhaps so Oh it was delightful to walk up the aisle feeling that every eye was fixed on —

"Yes, I know But tell me how did Nell get through the ceremony?"

I really don t know My mind was full of the one awful thought that I was standing with my back to all those people, while there was no telling but that my gown was crumpled after that long drive to the church

Oh, probably it was all right. Was Nell s gown —

'And wasn t it too bad that Harold was out of town and unable to see me in my lovely new dress!

'Oh well you can send him a photograph'

'Not unless he apologizes. '

'For what going away? But then, even an engaged man must attend to business. '

It wasn t only that It was his subsequent behavior You see I wanted him to share some of the festivities, so I sent him a box of wedding cake. You should have seen the letter I got in return

But perhaps it disagreed with him."

'It wasn t that You know I thought it would be nice to write him a sweet little note and slip it in the bottom of the cake box so that when he had eaten it all he would have a pleasant surprise

Good gracious, do you mean to say that you gave the box away and never knew '—

No, I don t. The—well, the truth is that those horrid mean postoffice employees actually opened the box and found the note! Oh how I do despise such prying inquisitiveness! Not satisfied with that they '—

'Goodness, can—can they send you to jail for violating the postal laws?"

No, they can't. But they actually made Harold pay letter postage on the box before they would give it to him. Four square inches of wedding cake cost him just $1 50 and now he—he says that he is afraid that I am not economical enough to make a good wife for a poor man! After I had put the note in the box to save extra postage too!"—Chicago Times Herald.

THE BEAUTY OF A SHIP.

Mrs Stowe's Fascinating Description of a Vessel Under Sail

Mrs Stowe, in 'The Pearl of Orr's Island," gives this fascinating description of a ship under sail "What is there belonging to this workaday world of ours that has such a fund of never failing poetry and grace as a ship? A ship is a beauty and a mystery wherever we see it Its white wings touch the regions of the unknown and the imaginative They seem to us full of the odors of quaint, strange, foreign shores, where life, we fondly dream, moves in brighter currents than the muddy, tranquil tides of every day Who that sees one bound outward, with her white breasts swelling and heaving, as if with a reaching expectancy, does not feel his own heart swell with a longing impulse to go with her to the faroff shores? Even at dingy, crowded wharfs, amid the stir and tumult of great cities, the coming in of a ship is an event that never can lose its interest. But on these romantic shores of Maine, where all is so wild and still and the blue sea lies embraced in the arms of dark, solitary forests, the sudden incoming of a ship from a distant voyage is a sort of romance. Who that has stood by the blue waters of Middle bay, engirdled as it is by green slopes of farming land, interchanged here and there with heavy billows of [illegible] trees or rocky, pine crowned promontories, has not felt the [illegible] of [illegible] and solitude which is so [illegible] and then what a wonder [illegible] a ship from China, [illegible] [illegible]

Delegation from Marion, Ind, Call on Major McKinley.

Canton, Sept 25—A delegation from Marion, Ind arrived in Canton shortly after 7 this morning, and started for Major McKinley s house before he had finished his sleep A delegation marching with bands through the streets at this early hour was something of a novelty even in Canton

The Marion people numbered 500 Many of them were former residents of Canton, having gone to Indiana after the discovery of natural gas Some of the banners carried by the Marion visitors bore the following inscriptions 42½ per cent. off We have seen better times 'We are Mexican greasers n t and An honest dollar and a chance to earn it

The spokesman Dr W R Frances of Marion assured Maj McKinley that the working men of Indiana were enthusiastic in their support of him and that the state would give him 40 000 plurality Maj McKinley's speech to them was in part as follows

Fellow citizens of the city of Marion and Grant County You are here this morning not to honor me personally, but to honor the cause which you love, and which you mean to support and you mean to support that cause because you believe it insures your own best welfare and the best welfare of the country at large (Applause)

You believe in that cause because you have tried it and having tried it you know you have been more prosperous in your occupations under the policy which it represents than you have been under any other policy And if anything was needed to confirm you in your devotion to that policy it would be found in the experience of the last four years.

Under no other policy under no other principle have you enjoyed that degree of individual or national prosperity which for more than thirty years you enjoyed under Republican policy and Republican administration (applause) and you are here this morning to testify anew your devotion to Republican principles and your deep and abiding interest that they may be successful throughout the country next November

You are interested in Indiana just as we are interested here in Ohio both in agriculture and in manufacturing You know something in that great gas belt of what manufacturing means to any community You know that when there is a successful manufacturing there is a prosperous city and you know what there is a prosperous city there [illegible] prosperous agriculture

A GENERAL DENIAL

That Bryan Was Prevented Speaking by Yale Men

New Haven Ct Sept 25—Every one discussing the Bryan incident of yesterday when the presidential candidate stopped speaking and declared that he was prevented by Yale men's noise from proceeding

There is a general denial that he was stopped from speaking by Yale men their claim being that they cheered for McKinley and gold incessantly at the beginning of his speech compelling Mr Bryan to take his seat after he had risen to speak and to wait five minutes till the cheering stopped But they state that when he once began they did not prevent him from continuing

Much indignation is felt at the reference by Mr Bryan to Yale students as young men who come to college to spend ill gotten gains

The Yale faculty assert that no official notice will be taken of the incident

The Register tonight prints an editorial to prove that yesterday's disturbance was due in a large degree to an incendiary speech delivered to an unsympathetic audience

The editorial says that in returning Mr Bryan threw the blame from his own shoulders where it belonged to the shoulders of the Yale men where it did not belong

The Naval Militia and Co K First Regt C N G, paraded on the Green while the Bryan affair was on The military men say however they were assured that the Bryan speaking would be over before the time for the dress parade 2 30 but as a matter of fact Mr Bryan did not appear on the green until 2.40

CANVASS IN ILLINOIS

Results Shown in Statements of Bank Cashiers

Chicago Sept. 25—Campaign Committeeman J G Johnson has received at Democratic National headquarters from a country banker in Illinois a copy of a letter sent out by N W Harris & Co the investment and bond banking firm of Chicago and Boston to its correspondents in that state This letter gives the result of a canvass in Illinois The firm sent inquiries to 4 000 correspondents and received about 1 200 answers The letter states

There were 117 bank cashiers who reported that in their opinion from present indications the Democratic vote in their county next November would be less than it was in 1894 and that the free silver tendencies were on the decrease There were 86 bank cashiers who reported that in their opinion, there would be an increase in the Democratic vote in November as compared with the Democratic vote in 1894 and thirty of the bank officials were of the opinion there would be no change In Minnesota the firm sent out about 4 000 inquiries to its correspondents and received about 400 replies, which were of the same tenor of those received from Illinois "

Mr Johnson remarked that the Minnesota correspondents evidently forget the Populist party in their estimates as they say nothing of the 80 000 Populist votes cast in 1894 and nothing about the Republican silver defection led by John A Lind and Congressman Towne

He added 'These correspondents are in every instance men engaged in the banking or investment business, a class which are hostile to Mr Bryan. Unreliable as the information is, it shows that even from a banker's standpoint the silver movement is likely to carry the entire west.

REPUBLICAN GAINS IN MICHIGAN

If Present Ratio Continues McKinley's Plurality Will Be 50,000.

Chicago, Sept 25 Major Hahn, of the speakers' department at the Republican headquarters, said yesterday

"I have just received a list of 120 former Democrats in a Michigan town of 15,000 with the statement that they will vote for McKinley I was astonished to find the names of many influential citizens on the list If this ratio is kept up in other cities it indicates a Republican plurality of 50,000 in Michigan for McKinley There has been a big change of sentiment among western voters within the last two weeks, more so in the last week, and I am now firmly convinced that the result in November in what are now considered doubtful States will surprise our most sanguine party leaders "

Ex Congressman Roswell G Horr, of New York came in yesterday from an extensive western tour and his only doubt is about Kansas, which he admitted will be hard fighting ground to the end of the campaign

Beginning Oct 5 Senator Foraker will make two speeches each in Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas

IMPORTANT TO SHIPOWNERS

Decision Rendered by United States Circuit Court of Appeals

A decision of great importance to shipowners has been rendered by the United States circuit court of appeals for the first circuit the opinion being by Judge Webb The case is that of the Boston Tow Boat Company owner of steam tug Vesta, against the schooner Jacob S Winslow Suit was brought on account of a collision between the schooner and two barges towed by the tug Vesta, Oct 16, 1894 near Tarpaulin Cove

In 1890, Congress passed a law making it the duty of colliding vessels to stand by each other, render assistance and give names in all cases where circumstances were such as to render it proper and reasonable, and further providing that failure to do this would render the offending vessel in fault as causing the collision, in the absence of proof to the contrary Since the passage of that act no case has been decided, in which a construction has been given to the statute, until the present time

Judge Webb says "The evidence is uncontroverted that after the collision the schooner proceeded on her course, without stopping to see if any assistance was required by the barge and without giving her name, hailing port or port of destination '

In the case now before the court, says the decision, the collision was near land, a tug boat uninjured and with steam up was at hand, one of the two barges was very little injured in her hull, and her crew were close by to assist it necessary, the hour was early, the sea smooth, and the wind probably less than five knots The crew of the barge most badly injured called upon the steam tug for help, not upon the schooner Although the barge was loaded with coal, the captain of the schooner might well consider she had at hand all the assistance required If he did so think, the result showed he was in no error He could not tell how much his own vessel was injured at that time His first duty was to look to the condition of his vessel, which he promptly proceeded to investigate. The vessels did not remain foul of each other and there is nothing in the evidence disclosing on the part of the schooner's captain any indifference or reckless disregard of his duty toward the vessel with which he had collided. This court cannot say, in view of all the circumstance surrounding him, that he was not warranted in believing he had ascertained no further assistance was necessary.

The court says. "We do not think upon the evidence before us, the Jacob F. Winslow should be condemned under the act of Sept. 4, 1890. If she is to be held liable at all it must be because of some fault in her navigation contributing to the collision."

The court at some length reviews the evidence relative to the cause of the collision and concludes the schooner was not at fault.

The decree of the district court is affirmed, with interest and costs.

A Few Fish Stories from Portland and Other Items.

Cumberland

N. F. Trafethen, of South Portland didn't think he was in luck when he took his family to a recent entertainment and found the hall so crowded that he couldn't find a seat, but he changed his mind, when, on at once returning home, he found a burglar in the house, who, being thus taken by surprise, was frightened off before he had time to steal anything

Said the drummer 'I knew a Portland sea captain who told of his sailing in southern seas where flying fish abound They would sometimes in their flight in the night come aboard ship and drop on the deck He had three cats that though they might be lying asleep below, would hear the sound whenever a fish struck the deck and would rush up to get it They distinguished this from other sounds The crew tried to imitate it in various ways to deceive them but they were never to be fooled '

Mr D O S Lowell, who writes to the Portland Transcript of his recent trip across the vasty deep, evidently encountered the Great American Liar among the monsters of the big seas One evening," he says, 'I came on deck late and my companion informed me that I had missed a wonderful spectacle We had passed through a school of porpoises a mile long and as many as 100 were out of water at one time. I tried to conceal my chagrin, and I must have succeeded for a little later he reverted to the subject and said the school was two miles long and 500 porpoises were in the air at once An older and more hardened traveler said, Humph! Five hundred? there were a million This led a man with red whiskers standing near, to tell of the flying fish he had seen in the West Indies nearly two feet long and going almost 1,000 feet before touching the water But the Old Traveler tossed his head 'The South Pacific is the place for flying fish Why I've seen fish there four and five feet long form a rainbow—a perfect rainbow sir —of at least 500 yards

FIVE THOUSAND KILLED

Story of Constantinople Massacres Told in Letter to Armenians in Lynn Mass

The first direct news Lynn Armenians have received of the recent massacres of their countrymen in Constantinople, came to hand Thursday in a letter which gives a detailed account of the terrible slaughter by the Turks and places the number of those massacred in Constantinople alone at over 5 000 It stated that information furnished the representatives of foreign powers by the Turkish officials only gave the number as a little over 2,000

The letter told how a mob of fanatical Moslems attacked the Armenian dwellings and dragged out the unfortunate inmates, only to assassinate them on the streets and mutilate the bodies of the victims after death Some Armenians took refuge in the houses of friendly Turks, but most of them were sought out and slaughtered without interference from the police and soldiers stationed in the city, who looked idly on Women and children were not spared in the general massacre

Some of the atrocities perpetrated upon the women who fell into the hands of the Turkish rabble were so revolting as to be almost indescribable

In one instance a wealthy Armenian merchant, bordering on 80 years of age, who was a man of high standing in the community was put to death with his family and all the members of his household, after which the contents of his residence, valued at thousands of dollars, were carried off by the Turks

In consequence of the enormous number of corpses of slaughtered Armenians and the strike of grave diggers, who were unable to secure pay the air in some districts was laden with dreadful stenches The work of killing the Christians had ceased when the letter was written, and attention was being given to burying the dead Surviving Armenian residents were living in constant fear that the atrocities would be renewed, and many were fleeing from the city, while others were seeking refuge in the quarters of the foreign embassies in the Crescent city

The Turkish government had commenced deporting Armenians from Constantinople and the situation for survivors was one of extreme peril

Much praise was given the representatives of the American and English governments at Constantinople for the humane manner in which they afforded protection to Christians, who would otherwise have been slain

Owing to the pressure brought to bear on the authorities in Constantinople by the representatives of foreign governments, the Turkish government promised to appoint a special commission to try the Armenian revolutionists and the Turkish mob which assassinated innocent Armenians, as well as the military and police of Constantinople, who looked idly on while the outrages were being committed News reached Constantinople the day the letter was written that several thousand Turks appeared in front of the government palace in Candia and protested against the reforms, which it was said the Sultan had conceded to Armenian Christian residents and declared they and their co-religion would leave the island if the concessions were granted

The city of Constantinople was said to be in a very disturbed state when the letter was written, and more massacres of Christians and Armenians were expected by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever, nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Alabama Coal in the Southwest

The coal miners of Alabama have begun the shipments of their product on a large scale to New Orleans and this is probably the beginning of a revolution in the method of supplying coal to Mississippi River points For many years the Western Pennsylvania operator who were in a position to send their coal out of Pittsburg enjoyed the bulk of the Mississippi River business As the mines in West Virginia were developed the operators in the Kanawha and other districts also entered the field and by far the greater portion of the fuel supplied New Orleans and the towns along the Mississippi River and its tributaries came from down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers over a route nearly 2 000 miles in length An idea of the extent of this business can be gained when it is stated that Louisiana people alone have paid Pittsburg operators about $4 000 000 annually and consumed from 1 500 000 to 2,000 000 tons of coal from this section

The miners in Alabama, although fully 1 300 miles nearer, have been unable to do an extensive business owing to the inadequate facilities for placing their coal in the lower Mississippi market at a price which would enable them to compete with the Northern miners The Southern Railway Company, however, appreciating the value and extent of the business which might be secured has made a special rate along the Georgia Pacific division from the mines in Walker and adjacent counties in Alabama to Greenville, Miss, on the Mississippi River Here extensive coal chutes have been erected by which carloads can be placed directly on barges Over one hundred barges have been secured for the service, and a contract made with the Ella Layman Towboat Company, of Charleston, W Va, to haul the barges down the river It is expected that a very large quantity of fuel will be placed in New Orleans.

Besides having the advantage of a comparatively short haul, the miners of Alabama will not have to wait for high water, as is often the case in Pittsburgh where tows and barges containing 50 000 to 100,000 tons are sometimes obliged to wait months before the water reaches a height sufficient to let them go down the Ohio River to the Mississippi. In addition to supplying the New Orleans, considerable of the Alabama coal may be sent by the way of the Gulf to Galveston and vicinity, and facilities will be provided for storing coal at that point and shipping it into the interior of the State.

LOCAL MATTERS.

The huge five masted schooner Governor Ames attracted much attention as she passed down the river Thursday afternoon on her way to sea from Bangor.

Mr. Ruel S. Kimball, who has been for several years the efficient assistant at the Probate Court, has resigned his position there to accept a clerkship in the Kenduskeag National Bank.

Norman A. Smith, of Bangor, has been appointed a special game warden to be stationed in Bangor during the coming season to patrol the trains and boats in search of violators of the law.

The commercial travellers' ball team, which recently came out victorious over the Brownville team, under the captaincy of Mr. William A. Heiskell, of this city, was to have played the Dovers at Dover yesterday.

The Boston & Bangor Steamboat Company will give half rates to Rockland for delegates and visitors to attend the Maine Baptist anniversaries at Damariscotta, October 6th to 8th. Steamer will leave Bangor at 11 a. m.

The action of William T. Gilbert, receiver of the Commercial Alliance Insurance Company, of New York, vs. the Maine & New Brunswick Insurance Company, was settled out of court in Portland this week in the United States Circuit Court just before the case came on for trial.

Many of those who attended the State Congregational conference and meeting of the Maine Missionary Society at Fort Fairfield this week were in the city yesterday on their return home. The session was a very successful one, every feature of the programme being carried out in a most helpful manner. The conference lasted three days.

The Bangor Kindergarten Association will meet at the Y. M. C. A. parlors at 3 p. m. on Friday, October 2d, to consider and vote upon the question of so amending the articles of the association as shall enable the association to add to the number of its managers and secondly to fill any vacancies which may exist under the articles of association as amended.

Portland Express: Mr. Edward Sullivan, of Bangor, while helping to erect an electric light pole Wednesday afternoon, at the corner of York and High streets, was injured by being struck on the head by the wagon tongue of the wagon on which the pole was being transported. He was rendered unconscious by the blow.

The steamer Sedgwick is now being prepared to take the place of the Cimbria, probably next week, on the Bar Harbor line. At present the Cimbria has too much freight traffic to be replaced by the Sedgwick, and so the change cannot be made until the business in this line falls off a trifle. The Tremont, another of the company's boats, has got through for the season.

Many sportsmen are going in to the woods over the Bangor & Aroostook railroad in readiness for open time on the big game which begins on October 1st. The Ashland Branch, Norcross, Staceyville and Grindstone are favorite localities. The indications are that there will be an unusually large number of sportsmen in the Maine forests this year.

A party of sportsmen composed of Messrs. F. E. Gilbert, Frank S. Bowen, Walter Barbour, Thomas H. Mills, A. V. Ingraham, Jr., Sidney Besser, Frank Beeter, John W. Hainsworth and Albert Hainsworth, of Providence, R. I., who have been on a hunting trip in Northern Maine, were in the city yesterday forenoon and left on the Boston steamer on their return home.

In the Municipal Court yesterday the case of G. W. Carlisle vs. Hugh O'Brien, of Brewer, for wages for driving a team in his brickyard in Brewer, was heard before Judge Vose. The defense was full payment. A. J. Merrill, Esq., appeared for the plaintiff and James D. Rice, Esq., for defendant. The case was continued till to-day in order that further testimony might be obtained.

News has been received in this city of the death of Albert Gilman, a former resident of North Bangor, in Alaska, where he with others had gone on a trading and prospecting trip some time in July. His home was in Seattle, where he leaves a family. The members of the Bangor Literary Society cherish his memory and remember him as a true friend and a man of excellent character. His death is much regretted.

Aroostook Times: We were favored today (Wednesday) by an unexpected but very welcome call from James Woodbury, Esq., of Bangor, brother of the late Hon. Eben Woodbury of this town, whom we remember fifty years ago, as our teacher in the then little old school house on the hill. Mr. Woodbury is in good health though much advanced in years. He recalls many incidents of interest of those early years and calls to mind the names of many pupils, who if now living will remember him most kindly as a very successful teacher, most devoted and patient in their behalf. Mr. Woodbury is a guest, during his brief stay in town, of his relatives, Mr. and Mrs. John G. McIntyre.

The Bangor and Aroostook Railroad have arranged for another enjoyable excursion to Moosehead Lake, Kineo and Pebble Beach, Tuesday, October 6th. A special train will leave Bangor at 6.55 a. m.; Exchange street at 7; Oldtown at 7.35, and arrive at Kineo at 12.30. Returning will leave Kineo at 3.30 p. m., and arrive at Bangor at 8.30. Every arrangement will be made with a view to the convenience and comfort of the party. The trip from Greenville will be made on the fine large steamer Katahdin, capable of carrying 700 passengers. Excursionists will stop at Kineo or go on to Pebble Beach, where a fine picnic ground has been arranged. The vast forests on every side stretching away for hundreds of miles will be in the glory of their autumn foliage. Fare for the round trip $1.50 from points between Bangor and Oldtown and $1.00 from Dover and points north. For further particulars see the advertisement in another column.

Reception for Miss Ida Brown.

A reception was given last evening at the residence of Rev. A. E. Kingsley, pastor of the First Baptist church, for Miss Ida Brown, President of the Cup-Bearers' Circle of King's Daughters, of the First Baptist church, and who leaves next Monday for Raleigh, N. C., to take charge of an important department in Shaw University. The evening was passed socially and very pleasantly and refreshments were served.

Miss Brown will be greatly missed in the First Baptist church and the King's Daughters, she having been a most efficient and active member. She has been a teacher in the High school for the past sixteen years and her services have been greatly appreciated there. Her departure from Bangor will be greatly regretted by many friends. The selection of Miss Brown for the excellent position [illegible] is a compliment to her ability.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Vitascope.

The exhibitions of the Vitascope at the Opera House were completed yesterday by matinee and evening entertainments which were well attended. The exhibitions have been interesting, pleasurable and successful, and they have entertained a large number of people during the week. Manager Richardson will undoubtedly meet with a deservedly favorable reception in the other places in Maine which he visits.

"Saved From the Sea."

The Boston Advertiser says of "Saved from the Sea," to be presented at the Opera House this evening:

"The ample spaces of the Bowdoin Square Theatre scarcely sufficed to contain the great company of spectators that assembled last evening to behold the first performance in America of 'Saved from the Sea.' The new piece is in four acts and is the work of Mr. Arthur Shirley and Mr. Ben Landeck. The scenes are laid in England, the first two acts in a village on the coast of Devon, the third act in the county jail, the fourth act in Portland prison and the country near by.

"There is much familiar stuff in 'Saved from the Sea' with which the popular heart may be fired. But its extraordinary attractiveness was largely due, in all probability, to the widely circulated statement that its chief incident repeated the veritable experience of a man condemned to death for murder, under whose feet upon the scaffold the trap thrice refused to do its fatal work, with the result that the execution was stayed and the prisoner afterward reprieved.

The Transcript says:

The theatre was packed to the roof, and the enormous audience testified in applause, hisses and exclamations their appreciation of the new melodrama. It is a matter of congratulation that this new idol of the people turns out to be above the average of its kind.

Bicycle Notes.

Cheap wheels have had their day, at least in the East. There is no doubt about the fact that thousands of these wheels are in use, and that few, if any, of them have given satisfaction. The reaction is sure to come next season. High grade bicycles will be in great demand and the shoddy wheels will go to the wall, where they belong. Any man or woman who has ridden an inferior wheel for one season will never do it again.

Just as soon as the owners of the thoroughbred began to cut down the distances in the races the general interest in the affairs of the turf began to lag. It is beginning to look as if the promoters of cycle racing have made a mistake in having so many short dashes. A good distance race ridden properly will attract the public every time. This was illustrated at the big meet in New York city last week. When the hour race was suggested many people said that it would be a tedious affair. It was just the reverse and such excitement was never before witnessed on a cycle track as that which greeted little Michael, the Welsh wonder, and Starbuck during the last 20 miles of their great struggle.

A question frequently asked of bicycle agents now-a-days is: "What will you allow me on my wheel in exchange for an 1897 tandem, when they are ready for distribution?" Agents everywhere have had this query propounded to them until they have become convinced that next season will be a tandem season with a vengeance. With such a sure tip to guide them the makers of wheels have put forth special efforts in the direction of double machines and some striking and desirable novelties may be looked for in the 1897 output. One of the novelties in the tandem line that has already been prepared and exhibited is the "Sky High" model.

The construction is such that the rear rider has an unobstructed view and perfect control of the steering. A prominent L. A. W. official recently took a tandem ride with his wife who is considerably larger than he. Asked upon his return what he saw on the trip his reply was: "Nothing at all of the country, but plenty of balloon sleeves and my wife's curls."

The "Sky High" obviates this condition and that is one reason why it will become popular. An expert explaining the construction of this machine says: "The rear crank hanger is raised 7½ inches over the line between wheel centres, while the front crank hanger is dropped 1½ inches below, placing the rear rider in a position in which he has a clear view.

"The strong arched bracing of the rear crank hanger lends an unusual rigidity to the whole construction, by which steering, especially at sharp turns is much facilitated, whipping of the chains and swaying of the frame being avoided and restful feeling of security imparted to the riders. The high seat may be mounted from the pedal without any difficulty on either upstroke or downstroke, and in dismounting the high frame affords a ready and firm hold if it becomes necessary to stop the machine in this manner."

Scott—Thomas.

A correspondent writes: A pretty wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Thomas, of Howland, on Wednesday, Sept. 23, the bride being their amiable and charming daughter, Miss Winifred Gertrude. Mr. Harry C. Scott, of Winn, was the bridegroom. Mr. Scott is one of the barbers of the village and is very well and favorably known, highly esteemed and respected. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. R. MacDougall, of Montague, who, with an impressive service, pronounced them no more twain, but one. After congratulations by the friends dinner was served.

Baseball Notes.

Thursday's New Bedford Mercury: Mr. Doe had a letter some days ago from Manager McDermott, of Bangor, asking for a full explanation as to the last Fall River game in this city when the regulation balls were not furnished. Mr. Doe sent on a statement as requested. Yesterday he received a telegram from Mr. McDermott asking for a further conference on the subject in Boston today, prior to the league meeting. Mr. Doe said to a Mercury reporter yesterday: "I shall tell the facts as I know them, but I don't intend to decide any dispute as to the pennant. That will probably be left with the official board."

Pawtucket Post: Doe and President Draper, of the Providence club, have claimed that Knorr was given a clear release from Providence, but the bulletin of reserved players recently issued by President P. T. Powers, of the Eastern League, does not bear out their statement, as Knorr's name is included in the list of players who have been reserved by Providence for 1897. The settlement of this matter may have an important bearing on the championship question, as if the games are thrown out it will make a difference in the standing of the clubs against which he officiated. In spite of the claim made by Doe and the New Bedford [illegible] there has been a [illegible] carried on, [illegible] President Draper [illegible] to allow Knorr [illegible]

Foot Ball This Afternoon.

The Bangor High School eleven will play its first full game of foot ball of the season this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Maplewood Park with the Waterville High School team and an exciting contest may be expected. The Waterville boys have been training several weeks and are said to have an unusually strong team this year. They have been coached by a college player and can be reckoned on for a brisk game.

The Bangor High School line up for the game will be as follows: Burrill, center; Hunt, r g; Smith, l g; Cutter, r t; Davis, l t; Snow, l e; Crowley, r e; McCann, q b; Hunt and Kinside, h b; Conners, f b. As rain makes no difference with foot ball, the game will be played rain or shine and many spectators will probably attend. A fair estimate of the strength of the Bangor team can be obtained from the game.

While the Bowdoin College team has not yet been definitely chosen, a pretty good idea of its probable make up is as follows, although there may be some changes: Spear, center; Hamlin, right guard; Shute, left guard; French, right tackle; Stockbridge, left tackle; Veazie, right end; Stearns, (Capt.) left end; Fairfield, quarter back; Kendall, Stanwood, Stetson, Horne, half backs; Clarke and Ives, full backs.

There are many candidates for the team and the second eleven is a strong one. The team has greatly improved during the past week under the coaching of Mr. Hoag and the line is now holding the second eleven finely. The M. I. S. C.-Bowdoin game on October 3d will be played at Brunswick and a return game at Orono will be played later in the season.

Narrow Escape.

As Miss Jennie Brennan and a friend were riding their bicycles down Main street last night just in front of a street car and going in the same direction as the car the front wheel of the former's bicycle slipped to one side and Miss Brennan was thrown to the ground upon the track directly in front of the car. The motorman quickly reversed the power and applied the brake and managed to stop the car within a foot of the prostrate young woman, who fortunately was not injured by her fall to the ground. The accident should be a warning to wheelmen and wheelwomen to keep at such a distance from the moving cars as will insure them against any such occurrences in the future.

The Brightness of Venus.

Venus and Jupiter are known to be the most brilliant of the planets of our solar system. Venus particularly at the time of her opposition to the sun reaches such a degree of brightness that it may be discovered in the sky even at daytime. Not long ago the astronomer, Leon Guiot, made a peculiar observation at the observatory of Juvisy. It was about 3 o'clock in the morning, and Venus had but shortly risen in the east. While getting up from his couch the astronomer was surprised how bright the firmament appeared to him, and, following up the phenomenon, he saw that the flood of light came from Venus. It was so strong that all articles threw shadows, and he even saw his own shadow on the wall. Becoming more interested, he turned to his timepiece and was surprised to find that he could not only recognize the exact position of the hands, but could read all the figures by the light of the planet. As a matter of curiosity he suspended his watch near the wall and attempted to take a photograph of both the watch and the shadow on the wall paper. The photograph of the shadow appears clean and [illegible]

STOWING AWAY.

A Foolhardy and Dangerous Method of Getting an Ocean Voyage.

In spite of the fact that the punishment usually meted out to those who try to steal a free passage on a ship is several weeks' hard labor, with the option of a fine, stowaways are even more common today than they were 50 or 60 years ago.

Big passenger steamers, with their hundreds of passengers and their scores of stewards, sailors and stokers, afford innumerable opportunities for stowing away.

Three years ago a stowaway was discovered aboard one of the Allan liners running between Liverpool and Montreal. He was shabbily dressed, but being a big, sturdy looking fellow he was put to work about the ship. When the ship anchored below Montreal, waiting for daylight before entering the harbor, he, it is presumed, slipped quietly overboard and swam ashore. In any case, when the boat touched at Montreal and was overrun by detectives looking for a notorious jewel robber, it was immediately suspected that the stowaway was the robber and that he had escaped, taking the jewels with him. He was captured some months afterward and confessed that when he swam ashore he had more than $10,000 worth of jewels on his person.

The favorite hiding places of stowaways are the coal bunkers and the narrow passages left when the vessels are loaded with bricks, tiles, iron pipes or other similar cargo. These places are extremely dangerous, and many cases are recorded where the shifting of the cargo has resulted in the death of some unfortunate wretch in hiding.

During the passage of a cargo boat to this country from England the sailors were startled the third day out by a curious scratching, which was immediately attributed to supernatural causes. The scratching continued for three days and then grew quiet and ceased. When the hatches were lifted at the end of the voyage, the emaciated body of a man was found lying on some bags of cement. The poor starving fellow had struggled frantically to get out of the hold.

As for our American liners, it is folly to try stowing away in any of them. The United States will not receive paupers, immigrants, and captains are forbidden to land stowaways in this country under a penalty of $2,500. A "free passenger" on one of these ships is promptly clapped in irons and kept there until the ship returns to Liverpool, when he is brought before the authorities.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A NOTABLE BANK.

The Most Independent One In the World Is In Norway.

Probably the most independent and aristocratic bank in the world is the Norges or national bank of Norway. It seems to be wholly indifferent to doing business of any kind, and what it does do it insists upon doing in its own deliberate way. Socially the bank is of considerable importance. The directors meet twice a week, and these friendly gatherings are said to be most enjoyable affairs. Loans and discounts form the chief subjects of conversation. No loan or discount can be made without the approval of three of the directors.

Suppose the directors are to hold a meeting on Wednesday and you want to borrow $5,000 on Monday. You apply to the Norges bank and are told that the matter will be taken under consideration at the directors' meeting on Wednesday, and you may look for an answer to your application by Thursday. It does not matter in the least that you want the $5,000 on Monday and not Thursday. You simply have to wait.

The origin of this institution was as peculiar as its management is unusual. Soon after the nominal union of Norway and Sweden, in 1814, the latter country began to feel the need of greater money facilities to meet the demands of the rapidly increasing commerce. The problem of securing the necessary capital for a great national institution was a very simple one for the Norwegian government.

It raised stockholders for the bank just as it raised soldiers for its armies. Every well to do citizen was compelled to take so much stock. He was always at liberty to take more if he chose, but always in amounts divisible by five. Bookkeeping was made easy on a new principle, in accordance with which sums ending in other figures than five and zero were to be excluded from the books.

This national bank is also a pawnshop. It is authorized by law to lend money on any nonperishable goods, provided they can be deposited in the bank and kept under lock and key. For this service it charges rather less than the usual pawnbroker's interest, which may perhaps account for the rarity of private pawnshops in Norway. In the regular loan department the curious rule is enforced that loans may not be made for less than one month nor for more than six and only for sums of at least $120.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Roads In China.

Country roads in China are never bounded by fences, but are entirely undefined. While the farmer has the right to plow up any road passing through his land, drivers of vehicles have an equal right—and they exercise it—to traverse any part of the country at large.

The Greeks and Romans had no week until they borrowed this division of time from the east. The Greeks divided the month into three equal periods; the Romans into three very unequal—the kalends, ides and nones.
